HHA Addresses Rodent Concerns at Columbia Senior Apartments

The Houston Housing Authority (HHA) is aware of the concerns regarding the complaints of rodents at the Columbia Senior at 2100 Memorial Apartments.

We have been working with our management team to address the issues and as of Tuesday, November 19, there have not been any sightings by residents reported at the property. We continue to engage our Extermination Firm, to continuously evaluate the situation and make necessary changes to the protocol as needed. We are employing a whole-team approach that also includes property management, construction, and operations.

Additionally, HHA is working with the developer partner, Columbia Residential, to ensure appropriate policies are in place that protect residents who may be displaced for some reason, and that these policies are appropriately communicated to residents.

HHA has not and will not take any steps to retaliate against residents for expressing their concerns regarding this, or any other issue that affects their tenancy. We will continue to support building management and resident relations to reinforce these policies
